Welcome to our free TOEFL course!

NoteFull is proud to offer this course as a gift to you to master the TOEFL and get you the score you need.

It's a powerful tool that has been perfected over 5 years through feedback from the successful students who used it, our own TOEFL master instructors who take the TOEFL regularly, and the countless curriculum development meetings that we've had to improve our teaching method.

We have helped thousands of students and professionals worldwide get the TOEFL scores they needed in months (or even weeks), instead of years.

Every one of the resources they used is available to you right here in this email course.

Here's how this course will improve your TOEFL score:

>>>You will receive 13 critical TOEFL lessons covering every section:

- >Reading
- >Listening
- >Speaking
- >Writing

>>>Each lesson will be delivered to you via email.

We will deliver detailed lessons, recordings, videos, and personal feedback all focused on helping you maximize your success on the TOEFL. This course is the most powerful FREE training for helping you get the TOEFL score you need in the world, guaranteed.

We designed it especially for you because at NoteFull, we are driven by two missions:

- 1) To help with every student that has a desire, a work ethic, and a strong will to succeed.
- 2) To raise your expectation of the incredible quality and effectiveness of online education. We want to revolutionize education!

NoteFull isn't just a TOEFL school, it's a movement. Myself and our entire team thank you deeply for being a part of it.

Now that you know how serious we are about your success and how to take advantage of this course, let's get started sky-rocketing your TOEFL score.

Lesson 1 of 13: TOEFL test center street smarts for a higher score

Countless numbers of students study months and weeks but still fail to get the score they need because they don't know how to handle basic test day issues.

When students take the TOEFL, many get stressed and lose focus when dealing with noisy neighbors, getting more note paper, using their 10-minute break, and many other distractions.

Lesson 1 teaches you the 5 most powerful points to keep you focused and avoid falling victim to the TOEFL's poorly run system.

After this lesson, you'll be as much of a professional TOEFL test taker as NoteFull's own TOEFL master instructors.

The points in this lesson--as with the other 12 lessons that we will be delivering to you--are taken directly from our most popular and successful TOEFL program:

Complete TOEFL Mastery

If you want to accelerate your progress and take advantage of everything we have to offer, registering for that program is your next best step to take.

So here are the 5 points you can master today:

- 1) TOEFL test center street smarts for a higher score
- 2) TOEFL basics
- 3) TOEFL registration, cost, and scheduling
- 4) TOEFL structure and scoring
- 5) TOEFL rescoring submission for a higher score

[Mastering the TOEFL] Our Trick to Scoring 30 on Speaking

Do you know how graders score your TOEFL speaking answers?

Short answer: they spend as little time as possible on them.

The truth is that TOEFL speaking raters are trained to listen for key things in your recording, such as speed, pronunciation, content, intonation, structure, etc.

The approach is far from scientific.

So your answers are graded the same way someone with POOR vision would pick the most luxurious car he "sees."

Please pay careful attention because this analogy comes from 5 years of NoteFull's work with thousands of students and several interviews with TOEFL raters.

We care about your understanding this because it WILL make a difference in your score.

If you have very poor vision, can you easily notice very small differences from the design of one car to another? NO!

Would you be able to notice the different qualities of leather in a 50-thousand-dollar car versus a 60-thousand-dollar car? NO!

However, even with poor vision, would you be able to notice the different qualities of a 50-thousand-dollar car and a 150-thousand-dollar car? Of course, YES!

That's why improving your TOEFL speaking score is so hard.

Graders notice big differences, not small ones. You have to make big jumps before you achieve the TOEFL speaking score that you want.

And we have a trick that's responsible for creating hundreds upon hundreds of TOEFL speaking success stories.

Lesson 2 of 13: The secret trick to improve your TOEFL speaking score now!

Sit back, relax, and get ready to watch our videos (viewed over a million times by students like you throughout the Internet). Each video details the tricks necessary to achieve top rating in all 6 TOEFL speaking questions.

Today's lesson--as with the other 11 lessons that NoteFull will be delivering to you--comes directly from NoteFull's most popular and successful TOEFL program--Complete TOEFL Mastery--so you're getting the real stuff.

[Mastering the TOEFL] Motivation to keep you going strong

6 years ago, you could get away with studying alone for the old paper based TOEFL.

Times have changed.

6 years ago, universities and licensing boards pounded ETS into submission. They were tired of high TOEFL scores from students who couldn't survive in professional settings.

This is when the Internet based TOEFL was born--the TOEFL test NoteFull is preparing you for right now with this email course.

This TOEFL is more difficult than even our most fluent students expected.

So, why the strong warning?

NoteFull is here to prepare you for TOEFL success. That means letting you know everything it takes to succeed--beyond just basic language and test taking strategies.

Lesson 3 of 13: Getting the help you need from NoteFull

For the past 5 years, NoteFull has tested and perfected every one of its strategies in actual TOEFL tests, coached hundreds of students to success, and developed the most effective training for the TOEFL than any other organization on earth.

We eat, sleep, breath, and live for the TOEFL.

So take advantage of our expertise.

>>> A) If you're doing well studying the way you are right now or can't afford one of our programs, don't worry! Keep mastering this email course and getting help from us via email.

This email course is for you and everyone around the world to succeed on the TOEFL regardless of financial background.

"I was financially incapable of paying for your courses," says Michael. "All I could make do with were your videos on YouTube and your email course. With those and only few weeks of preparation, I had 100. Thank you!"

>>> B) If you are studying hard, but just aren't confident that you'll succeed on your next TOEFL, register for NoteFull's Complete TOEFL Mastery program.

We guarantee you'll get the score you need, or we'll give you your money back.

Here are 5 reasons why we stand behind Complete TOEFL Mastery with such a strong guarantee:

> 1. Complete TOEFL Mastery has every single technique, video, practice, recording, and exercise we've ever created.

Perfected over 5 years of dedicated work, this course WILL improve your TOEFL score as quickly and efficiently as humanly possible.

The email course you're using right now is based on just a few points from Complete TOEFL Mastery. It is just the tip of the iceberg.

"The last time I took the test, I got 78. Then, I bought the Complete TOEFL Mastery program," says Paulo. "I got 98. In two to three months of studying I added 20 points to my score. NoteFull is not a study program, it is a commitment. That's why I recommend it. Thanks!"

> 2. We have countless success stories from students that use it.

If you don't agree that it is the most effective and complete TOEFL preparation material you've EVER purchased . . . or you are unhappy for ANY other reason . . . You'll get a full refund right away.

> 3. You can access Complete TOEFL mastery online right now and start shifting your worry into confidence today.

As soon as you register by clicking on the link below, you will gain instant access to the entire program.

> 4. Your online access to Complete TOEFL Mastery never expires, so whenever there's a change to the TOEFL, you get every course update absolutely free.

> 5. You'll continue to get unlimited email support from our team of top-scoring TOEFL master instructors. We'll work with you every step of the way to take you from where you are to where you want to be.

Your success is worth it. If you have to take the TOEFL half a dozen times before you pass, that costs you over a thousand dollars in TOEFL registration fees.

Plus, you waste all of that time, holding you back from getting on with your life!

If you're serious about your TOEFL success and aren't yet confident in you will achieve it on your next test, register now and know that together we'll get you the score you need.

[Mastering the TOEFL] Getting a 30 on Reading

Every TOEFL student who's studied for the TOEFL knows that the reading section requires a smart strategy to earn a top score.

But when you're actually taking the TOEFL, having to deal with the stress of the timer counting down on your computer screen, it's very easy to fall into old habits and completely forget the strategies you've studied and prepared with.

The sad result is that hours, weeks, and even months of studying can go out the window when you're under so much pressure.

If you've never taken the TOEFL before, trust us, the pressure can be intense. And if you have, you know exactly what we're talking about.

Lesson 4 of 13: Achieving a top TOEFL reading score despite stress

So, what's the solution?

Simply follow each of the steps below in today's lesson, which has been pulled directly from Complete TOEFL Mastery.

1) The reading timer is king.

Timing is everything. It's the foundation for your top score. Fail at mastering timing and you WILL fail at achieving your top reading score.

In a second, you'll learn how to turn the clock on your computer screen from a source of stress into a tool to help you succeed.

2) Every reading question has a formula.

Refined through years of dedicated work, our formulas for every single TOEFL reading question type are delivered in an audio recording for you to listen to, master, and apply. Follow them and succeed.

3) Rushing equals death.

Yes, DEATH. You will kill your reading score if you rush. I know your next thought: "I can't complete the TOEFL reading section if I don't rush! This doesn't make any sense!"

Don't worry. Our process will allow you to take your time to answer and STILL answer within timed conditions.

[Mastering the TOEFL] Do you speak well enough?

Are you speaking well enough to earn a top TOEFL speaking score?

If you can't answer that right now, you might be in a bit of trouble.

One quarter of your total grade on the TOEFL is for speaking. It's also one of the most intimidating sections of the TOEFL for many students.

Without knowing where your weaknesses and strengths are, you could be studying a huge amount, but not studying the right things. So, before our next lesson arrives in your inbox, know exactly where your stand.

Ask a friend who HAS earned at least your goal TOEFL speaking score to listen to your example answers for ALL questions. Ask your friend for the number one thing you need to improve on most and work on that.

Be sure not to ask a friend who's studying for the TOEFL, too. That's like asking someone for directions who doesn't have a map.

Lesson 5 of 13: Getting feedback for your TOEFL speaking now

If you're not confident your friend is giving you the advice you need to get the score you need on the speaking section, then reach out to us.

In our TOEFL Speaking Practice Test Review program, we've set up everything so that you can record your answers to a complete TOEFL speaking test and submit it for review.

Click to learn about NoteFull's Speaking Practice Test Review.
<https://www.notefull.com/products.php?cid=73&pid=136>

Once you do, one of our NoteFull TOEFL master instructors--someone who has scored a perfect 30 on the TOEFL speaking--will evaluate your answers.

Our TOEFL master instructor WILL:

- 1) Tell you your overall TOEFL speaking score TODAY.*
- 2) Explain your weaknesses in a 3-minute detailed recording
- 3) Outline essential skills you need to increase your score now.
- 4) Describe what you need to focus on to improve those skills.

This personal feedback is critical to see what level you are at and how you need to study to improve before your next TOEFL exam.

Best of all is the price: NoteFull's TOEFL Speaking Practice Test Review program costs only $7. And if you are not 100% satisfied, we will refund your money in full.

Our goal is simple: For you to know at this stage exactly where you stand.

Too many students wait for their $180 TOEFL to tell them they're not ready yet. It's just a huge waste of money, time, and is an incredible let down.

For the past 5 years, this has been the first step hundreds of NoteFull students like you have taken to achieve their dramatic TOEFL speaking results.

"Your study materials plus your straight-to-the-point reviewers and strategies were all very helpful, especially for a first time TOEFL test taker like me," says Maria. "I got a shocking 29 in speaking!"

[Mastering the TOEFL] 5 tips from a successful student

Today we're going to share 5 tips from our student Alex on how he earned his goal score of 105 on the TOEFL.

Your desired score might be a little different. But, one thing is certain: we all want the highest TOEFL score possible and 105 is impressive (even if you're looking for better results yourself).

Fortunately, one of Alex's first thoughts after receiving his 105 was sharing what helped him most with the NoteFull community.

So, in today's lesson, let's examine what Alex uncovered that shot his score up 28 points!

Lesson 6 of 13: The 5 best ways to master the TOEFL today

>>>1) In the speaking part of the exam, the most important skill is speaking smoothly, confidently, and calmly.

>>>2) Use deep breathing, meditation, or similar techniques to get rid of stress during your studies and on the actual TOEFL.

>>>3) In the writing section, write about 400 words for the second question. If your answer is not long enough, add more details in the body paragraphs.

>>>4) For the reading and listening sections, practice with lectures and passages.

>>>5) Two weeks before your TOEFL exam, speak less in your native language and speak much more English.

Now, if you've been studying for a while, you know that these tips--and so many of the others that you've learned--are easy to say but difficult to master.

That's normal.

Maybe you've started down this path already. The questions below will determine how ready you are to take advantage of these tips by yourself:

>>>Are you frustrated with the painfully slow progress you're making trying to improve your score?

>>>Are you overwhelmed with the amount of studying you have to do each day to reach your TOEFL score?

>>>Or are you exhausted at the thought of spending another day studying and taking care of everything else in your life?

If you answered yes to any of these questions, then you're struggling to move ahead. Don't worry! There is a lot of great content in tomorrow's lesson. We've designed it especially for you.

It will teach you exactly how we helped Alex integrate those 5 points into his skill set and get MORE than the score he needed.

Until then, study hard, stay strong, do your best to apply these tips, and remember that if you have any questions about this lesson, or any part of your TOEFL preparation, you are not alone. NoteFull is here to help you 100%.

Reply to this email with any questions you have about this lesson or your TOEFL studies and we'll provide precise, powerful help right away.

[Mastering the TOEFL] Getting the help you need to succeed

A few days ago we revealed the 5 keys Alex discovered that led to his success in raising his score 28 points (from a 77 to a 105) in just a few months.

We also asked you a few questions to determine whether you could apply these tips to get the same kind of dramatic results:

>>>Are you frustrated with the painfully slow progress you're making trying to improve your score?

>>>Are you overwhelmed with the amount of studying you have to do each day to reach your TOEFL score?

>>>Are you exhausted at the thought of spending another day studying and taking care of everything else in your life?

If you answered yes to any of those questions you need help, especially if you answered yes to all of them.

Lesson 7 of 13: Getting the help you need to get your TOEFL score

After helping thousands of students over the past 5 years to get their TOEFL scores, we've developed a specific process to make that happen.

It has grown to become our most popular GUIDED program:

3-step TOEFL Mastery with Tutoring and Review.

NoteFull's path to a 30 on the TOEFL listening

What's the most important skill to transform your TOEFL listening score?

The Answer: Taking GREAT notes.

Today's iBT TOEFL courses are teaching thousands upon thousands of eager TOEFL test takers like you to focus on something else instead. And, those that do focus on how to take notes often teach it in a poor, misleading way.

The Result: Few students ever see dramatic gains in their TOEFL listening scores.

Today, we will transform your understanding of academic English for a higher TOEFL score--and even improve your understanding of everyday English too!

When it comes to developing real listening skills for a higher score, the basic fundamental unit of English matters THE MOST for comprehension:

- the sentence,
- composed of a subject (I),
- a verb (eat),
- and an object (apples).

For example, what's the most important part of the this sentence?

(Part A) Before I went to the beach to have a great time,
(Part B) I ate an apple.

It's a strange sentence, I know, but what's the most important part?

It's Part B: "I ate an apple." Why? It is the main independent clause. "But, the 'before' statement is important too," you might say. The truth is that it doesn't matter.

In academic English--the English you will ALWAYS hear on the TOEFL--basic grammar rules are followed strictly. And, the most basic grammar rule is:

The main independent clause delivers the most important information.

Some of you might be asking: "Great, so what's an independent clause? And, how will that improve my notes? And, what about the topics I might hear in a TOEFL lecture? I hate history and I hate science too . . . "

Fear not! We have the solution...

Lesson 8 of 13: 4 steps to TOEFL listening mastery, the right way

Taking great notes isn't the only thing, but it is the absolute most important thing to maximize your listening score from our 5 years of experience teaching the TOEFL to millions of students across the planet.

Today's lesson will walk you through the following:

- >>> 1) Listening to lectures and conversations for greatest comprehension
- >>> 2) Taking organized notes that will help you answer listening questions
- >>> 3) Answering strategy for each listening question type
- >>> 4) Mastering the most frequently discussed topic on the TOEFL

[Mastering the TOEFL] A Perfect 30 on Writing

Whatever goal score you're aiming for, this is the path that will get you there.

It's simple, but has been perfected over 5 years through feedback from the successful students who used it and countless curriculum development meetings that we've had to improve our teaching method:

- > Know your current writing score
- > Determine what's holding you back
- > Work on what's holding you back
- > Apply what you learned to get the score you need on the TOEFL

Here's an example:

A short time ago, we had a student who wasn't sure what kind of help she needed to get her goal writing score of 25.

Since she had never taken the TOEFL before and had no idea where her skills were, we followed NoteFull's path above and recommended that she register for a review of just one of her writing practice tests.

She registered and can you imagine how happy she was when we scored her essay a 26 out of 30, more than what she needed to get her score.

And, can you picture how much happier she was when she earned a 28 on her actual TOEFL writing section because she followed the feedback that we provided.

Most students aren't so lucky. Most students need to raise their score because their skills aren't high enough. No matter what level you're at, if you're serious about success, follow this path knowing it has lead thousands of students to TOEFL success.

Lesson 9 of 13: Know your current writing score

In our TOEFL Writing Practice Test Review program, we've set up everything so that you can write your essays to a complete TOEFL writing test and submit them for review.

One of our NoteFull TOEFL master instructors--someone who has used NoteFull strategies to earn a perfect 30 on the TOEFL writing--will read and evaluate your essays.

You'll get a score for each of your essays along with an overall TOEFL writing score.

Even more valuable, your instructor will record a 6 to 12-minute detailed review explaining why you got the score you did.

You will be given exercises, strategies, and next steps to get the TOEFL writing score you want.

Remember that students and professionals worldwide rely on NoteFull to help them get their score on the TOEFL so they can pursue their academic or career interests.

"Excellent! 28 on the writing section with the help of my review. The review was very easy to understand and it gave me a huge hand for the exam, only 10 days before the test!" - Francisco

[Mastering the TOEFL] Writing Tricks to Get a 30

How much time do you think TOEFL raters look at your essays?

15 minutes, 10 minutes, 5 minutes?

Wrong.

1 minute, or 3 if you're lucky.

How do we know?

Remember: we eat, breath, sleep, and live the TOEFL.

We've interviewed TOEFL writing raters and learned this directly from them.

TOEFL raters are trained to waste no time!

They receive around 100 essays to evaluate in a 4-hour block of time. So, how much time and care do you think they're going to spend on your essay? Not much.

But, don't be discouraged. There's a way to bend this to your advantage and that's exactly what we're going to show you in today's lesson.

Lesson 10 of 13: Knowing what matters within the minute your essays are graded

If graders spend only 1 to 2 minutes on your essay, then what are they looking at? Clearly they can't read your entire essay carefully in 1 minute. They can't closely examine your grammar and sentence structure. So what do they look for?

The following tips can make the difference from earning an 18/30 to a 26/30 on your TOEFL writing.

Click to see them in two fantastic video lectures--videos that have been seen hundreds of thousands of times by students like you around the world.

You'll take your TOEFL writing score to the next level by following each of the steps in these videos in today's lesson, a lesson--as with the other 3 lessons that NoteFull will be delivering to you--that comes directly from NoteFull's most popular and successful TOEFL program: Complete TOEFL Mastery.

[Mastering the TOEFL] NoteFull's Path to 120

The amount of strategy and skills you need to achieve a high TOEFL score can be overwhelming.

If you're struggling to keep up with all that you've learned in this course, today's lesson will be a great help.

You'll understand the foundation of how all NoteFull programs work and how you can use this to speed up your progress faster than you thought possible.

Lesson 11 of 13: How to apply NoteFull's path to 120 on your next TOEFL

Follow each of the steps below with great care in today's lesson, a lesson--as with the other 2 lessons that NoteFull will be delivering to you--that comes directly from NoteFull's most popular and successful TOEFL program: Complete TOEFL Mastery.

>>>Step one: Learn

Master all of the teaching material we've covered in our TOEFL

email course.

Master the reading basics, the listening basics, the speaking basics, and then the writing basics.

This is just at a memory level. You need to have all of these skills and techniques memorized.

>>>Step two: Practice

This is by far the most poorly executed step in the process towards TOEFL mastery. Why?

Because it's boring, repetitive, and demands focus. There's no way around it. It's not about practicing 50 different practice tests.

It's about reviewing 1 practice test 50 times with the focus of implementing everything memorized in step one above.

>>>Step three: Review

Review your progress to focus on your weak spots.

As you go through step two, you'll find out what you struggle with. For example, maybe you just can't get down timing for the reading section or you have trouble developing good examples for writing question 1.

This step can be the most frustrating because you have to deal with uncertainty. You must think carefully and critically about yourself and the way you go through your practice.

It's tough but essential. Without this step, there is no progress, just repetition.

Without this step, you won't become comfortable with applying what you've learned and won't be able to apply them well on your next TOEFL--preventing you from hitting your goal score.

>>>Step four: Repeat steps 1-3 until you hit your score.

If you follow this you WILL hit your TOEFL score.

We've NEVER had a student who followed this and didn't achieve his or her TOEFL score. And don't forget we've worked with thousands upon thousands of students.

That doesn't mean that every student succeeded in days. Some took months, and those who needed the most help took more than a year.

But, this IS the fastest way to your score. And, until you study this way, your progress is NOT as fast as it could be, no matter what your TOEFL deadline or goal score is.

Now that you know what you have to do, what's your next step if you're still struggling and stressed about applying it? It's time to get help because there's nothing more critical to your success.

It's time to register for NoteFull's Complete TOEFL Mastery program. There's no other way to say it.

No question, no doubt, no hesitation, NoteFull's Complete TOEFL Mastery course is the most important next step to your TOEFL success. It is our most powerful program. It has helped more students succeed than anything else.

[Mastering the TOEFL] Speaking Mastery

Here's how to apply NoteFull's path to 120 on your next TOEFL, with a focus on the speaking:

- > Know your current speaking score
- > Determine what's holding you back

- > Work on what's holding you back
- > Apply what you learned on the TOEFL

What changes an answer from earning a speaking score of 20 to 26+?

The difference between these two scores may seem dramatic. But, it's not as complicated as you might think. Master this, and you can handle the pesky speaking section with ease.

First, remember that the TOEFL speaking section has 6 questions that you must record in a limited amount of time. It's no easy task.

Today, we're going to show you two example answers for one of the toughest TOEFL speaking questions around, so it does become easy for you:

TOEFL Speaking Question 1

By the end of this lesson, you'll find out where you are on the scale: closer to 20 or closer to 26--satisfying the first step on our path to 120: know your current score.

You'll also find out what's holding you back through our analysis of each example answer--moving you into the second step of our path to 120: determine what's holding you back.

Lesson 12 of 13: NoteFull's 5 steps to increasing your rating on Q1

The content of today's lesson--as with your next and final lesson that NoteFull will be delivering to you--comes directly from NoteFull's most popular and successful TOEFL program: Complete TOEFL Mastery.

Here's exactly what it takes to earn a top score:

- >>>1) Focus on the question with your reasons and examples
- >>>2) Reference real experiences in your example
- >>>3) Say more information
- >>>4) Deliver answers with good grammar--not excellent
- >>>5) Speak with conversational vocabulary and intonation

Now, let's take a look at our example answers and see how good of a job they do in satisfying the 5 skills mentioned above. At the same time, determine what answer you're closer to so you can estimate your speaking score at this moment.

Question:

If a friend from another country visited your home, what food would you prepare and why? Use specific reasons and examples to support your answer.

Basic answer scoring a 20/30

In my view, I would prepare Sushi from a friend from another country.

The first reason is that many people like Sushi.

For example, when I lived in the United States, I saw many Sushi restaurants and most of them were always busy.

The second reasons is that Sushi is one of the famous Japanese food.

For example, in the United States, I was sometimes asked whether or not I can make Sushi.

That's why I would make Sushi for that friend.

Approximately 82 words total.

Answer after mastering NoteFull's lessons scoring a 26/30

I'm from Japan, so I would prepare sushi for a friend from another country.

The first reason is that many people like sushi so my friend might too.

>>>1) Focus on the question with your reasons and examples--do you see how this reason focuses on the question?

For example, I lived in the US for about 4 years. I had an apartment in California. I saw sushi restaurants everywhere and most of them were busy, so I assume my friend would love sushi too.

>>>2) Reference real experiences in your example--do you notice the difference in the quality and vocabulary of this example?

The second reason will be good for my friend's health.

For example, I was watching t.v. yesterday and I saw a news report about eating healthier. It said people should not eat too much red meat and eat more fish instead, which is what sushi is made of.

That's why I would make Sushi for my friend.

Approximately 120 words total.

>>>3) say more information--do you see how more content gives a stronger response?

>>>4) deliver answers with good grammar--do you see the simple, yet correct grammar used?

>>>5) speak with conversational vocabulary and intonation--this one you'll have to imagine.

So, are you closer to the example of 20/30 or 26/30? Do you now know which skills among the 5 above you need to improve on most?

To strengthen those weaknesses, review this email again and again and make a transcript of your own answers to evaluate your progress on your weak spots.
